

The Journal of Mechanism and Institution Design's Ethics & malpractice statement

The Journal of Mechanism and Institution Design (jMID) take the topics of ethics & malpractice very seriously. Acceptance of this Ethics & malpractice statement is a precondition for publication in jMID. A concise guide on the general position jMID supports can be found on the COPE website (<http://goo.gl/aWy7WX>). All main stipulations from this guide are adopted for the jMID ethics and malpractice position. In particular, the following guidelines apply:

1. Editorial Board: The editorial board of the Journal of Mechanism and Institution Design (jMID) consists of leading field experts in the area of mechanism and institution design. The names, affiliations, and contact information of all editorial board members are, together with their roles, detailed on the journal's web site. The governing body overseeing the editorial board and the publication of jMID is the Society for the Promotion of Mechanism and Institution Design (SPMID). The society's elected members are recognized field experts in Mechanism and market design. The full names and affiliations of the members of SPMID and jMID's editorial board are provided on the journal's web site www.mechsnism-design.org; contact information for jMID's editorial office is provided on the same web site.
2. Authors and Authors responsibilities: jMID does not charge fees for manuscript processing and/or publishing materials in the journal. jMID publications are open-access to everyone. We are a community-sponsored project (all sponsors are listed on the journal website). Our sponsor's donations cover all charges and fees associated with publication in jMID. This policy is clearly stated in our Guide for Authors which should be consulted before authors begin preparing their manuscript for submission. Authors are obliged to participate in peer review process; procedures are in place to ascertain that all authors of an accepted paper have significantly contributed to the research; authors are obliged to provide retractions or corrections of mistakes; and authors are required to provide a list of references, financial support, and conflicting interests. jMID only publishes original research articles. No major parts of the submitted work must have appeared elsewhere without being referenced.
3. Peer-review process: All articles published by jMID are (peer) reviewed defined as "obtaining advice on individual manuscripts from reviewers' expert in the field of publication"; the process is clearly described on jMID's web site; all judgments and findings in the peer-review process are designed to be objective and checked by jMID's editors; reviewers are required to state potential conflicts of interest; reviewers sare asked to point out relevant published work which is not yet cited in the submitted manuscripts; and all reviewed articles are treated confidentially prior to their publication.
4. Publication ethics: jMID editors are committed to taking all reasonable steps to identify and prevent the publication of papers where research misconduct has occurred; in no event shall a jMID editor encourage such misconduct, or knowingly allow such misconduct to take place; in the event that a jMID editor is made aware of any allegation of research misconduct, jMID's editors and members of SPMID shall deal with such allegations appropriately; jMID has guidelines available for retracting or correcting articles when needed; finally, jMID editors are committed to publishing corrections, clarifications, retractions and apologies when needed.

5. Copyright and access: all applicable copyright and licensing information is clearly described on jMID's web site; the way(s) in which the journal and individual articles are available to readers is clearly described; in particular the website points out that jMID publications are open-access to everyone, free of charge.
6. Archiving: jMID's articles, production files, policies, and its website are electronically backed up on a daily basis; jMID is archived in major repositories which are committed to preserving access to jMID articles regardless of jMID's future status.
7. Ownership and management: jMID is managed, owned, and published by SPMID. All details and informations about the both SPMID and jMID's management are available through jMID's web site; SPMID does not use organizational names that would mislead potential authors and editors about the nature of the journal's owner.
8. The web site: jMID's web site at www.mechsnism-design.org (including the text that it contains) demonstrates that care has been taken to ensure high ethical and professional standards.
9. Publishing schedule: the current periodicity of jMID publication is one volume per year; this is clearly indicated on jMID's website; should the current periodicity be changed in the future, the corresponding information will be updated.
10. Name of the journal: the name "Journal of Mechanism and Institution Design" (jMID) is to the best of the Editors' knowledge unique and not easily confused with other journal(s). Hence, the danger of misleading potential authors and readers about the journal's origin or association with other journals is minimal.
